Simplified and reorganized, while avoiding much of the technical detail of Longman grammar of spoken and written English (LGSWE).

Principles and Practice in Second Language Acquisition Pearson Longman

This book is a collection of linguistic and philosophical papers dealing with the semantic problems of determiners. The language under investigation is mostly English, although a few papers deal with French and German, and, to a lesser extent, with Dutch, Polish, Russian and Hebrew. The majority of the contributions focus on the semantics of the definite and indefinite articles, leading into discussions of anaphoricity, specificity, opacity and transparency, referentiality and attributiveness and genericity. The relation of the determiners to other parts of grammar, in particular relativisation and predication, is also investigated. Some attention is also given to quantifiers. In the spirit of pluralism, there is no single paradigm unifying all the papers, rather, the volume reflects elements of the Extended Standard Theory, Generative Semantics, Montague Grammar, (Gricean) Pragmatics and Speech Act Theory.

Focus on Grammar Pearson PTR Interactive

Is it Real? is a collection of twenty-eight papers on the most challenging, provocative - and profound - topics related to the quest for real and virtual realities of vision and other senses, and realities that are either constructed or imagined. There was no school, no theory, no methodology, nor any empirical approach in semiotics which was not forced to take a position, whether implicitly or explicitly, in attempting to discuss this issue. Semiotics is a discipline dealing with signs, and, thus, it is commonly thought that if we say of something that it is a "sign", then it is something "less" real than the thing itself to which it refers. As such, the field of problems which opens from the theme "Is it Real?" is almost endless - but also relevant. This volume presents interactive dialogue related to this question structured under six different headings: five papers on the topic of "Visual Realities"; six on "What is Real?"; five on "Textual Realities", concentrating on realities revealed from literature or the written language through texts; five on "Constructed Realities"; three on "Virtual Realities"; and, finally, four papers on "Imagery Realities".

Understanding and Using English Grammar Orient Blackswan

The present volume examines the relationship between second language practice and what is known about the process of second language acquisition, summarising the current state of second language acquisition theory, drawing general conclusions about its application to methods and materials and describing what characteristics effective materials should have. The author concludes that a solution to language teaching lies not so much in expensive equipment, exotic new methods, or sophisticated language analysis, but rather in the full utilisation of the most important resources - native speakers of the language - in real communication.
