Works Ed. by John Mitford
Oxford University Press
Encore une rareté révélée par notre collection.
Publiés clandestinement en 1932, Les Jeux du plaisir et de la volupté sont restés jusqu'à ce jour ignorés du public - et des meilleures bibliographies érotiques -, pendant plus de soixante-dix ans.
Pourtant l'auteur, de son vrai nom, sous différents pseudonymes, Johannès Gros, est maintenant connu, et plusieurs de ses textes circulent au grand jour, malgré leur audace.
Nous n'en dirons pas plus.
L'auteur est, pour un spécialiste comme Alexandrian, " un érotomane de grand style
", et " l'héritier spirituel " du célèbre Andrea de Nerciat. Références indiscutables.

The salon was of particular importance in mid- to late-seventeenth-century France, enabling aristocratic women to develop a philosophical culture that simultaneously reflected and opposed the dominant male philosophy. In The Suspicion of Virtue, John J.

Conley, S. J., explores the moral philosophies developed by five women authors of that milieu:
Madame de Sablé,
Madame Deshoulières,
Madame de la Sablière, Mlle de la Vallière, and Madame de Maintenon.
Through biography,
extensive translation, commentary, and critical analysis, The Suspicion of Virtue presents the work of women who participated in the philosophical debates of the early modern period but who have been largely erased from the standard history of philosophy. Conley examines the various literary genres (maxim, ode, dialogue) in which these authors presented their moral theory. He also unveils the philosophical complexity of the arguments presented by these women and of the salon culture that nurtured their preoccupations. Their pointed critiques of virtue as a mask of vice, Conley asserts, are relevant to current controversy over the revival of virtue theory by contemporary ethicists.

Defining Modernism investigates the intellectual connections among three leading nineteenth-century
European modernists - Baudelaire, Nietzsche,
and Richard Wagner.
Through a close reading of Baudelaire's and Nietzsche's essays on art and culture, Wagner's role in the two writers' attempts to define the radically new concept of «modernism» is elucidated. Gogroff-Voorhees explores the affinity between the two writers, which emerges from a juxtaposition of their formulations of the idea of a fractured, contradictory modernity that at once embraces, scatters, and reevaluates an entire constellation of ideas, including romanticism, pessimism, decadence, and nihilism.

Nicolae Babuts believes that the study of metaphoric thought and literature can be enriched by the application of recent discoveries from neuroscientific experiments. He maintains that metaphors are neither linguistic formations nor conceptual formations, but instead the product of association of images and language. They are a matter of vision. Memory is an essential component in the creation of meaning and is the way the mind receives messages from the outside world. In this process of transferring data from the outside world, the mind's overriding tendency is to integrate and interpret. Thus, incoming messages are recognized and given meaning whether they are in harmony with the inner world of the mind or in conflict with it. Babuts argues that the literature we read is related to our perception of reality. And reality has two identities: the physical identity of the outside world and its symbolic identity within memory. The symbolic identity of the outside world is represented internally by the metaphoric universe in the mind.

Les sentiers de la volupté BRILL

This book explores how modernity gives rise to temporal disorders when time cannot be assimilated and integrated into the realm of lived experience. It turns to Baudelaire and Flaubert in order to derive insights into the many temporal disorders (such as trauma, addiction, and fetishism) that pervade contemporary culture. Histoire de la littérature latine chrétienne, depuis les origines jusqu'à Charlemagne Rodopi A substantial study of the works of Charles Baudelaire (1821-1867) that provides fresh and detailed readings of his poetry in verse and prose. Correspondances Les éditions du Septentrion "Original texts and translations are presented on facing pages, allowing readers to appreciate the vigor and variety of the French and the fidelity of the English versions. Divided into three chronological sections spanning the Middle Ages through the sixteenth century, the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the volume includes introductory essays by noted scholars of each era's poetry along with biographical sketches and bibliographical references for each poet."--BOOK JACKET.

French Women Poets of Nine Centuries JHU Press

This major new study of Baudelaire is a journey into the secret language of Les Fleurs du Mal: the expressive pliancies of its verse-forms and syntax, the fluctuations of its rhythms, its significant sonorities, its metaphorical figures and dynamic image-patterns, its network of nerves and trigger-points, its shifting underground of parallels and contrasts, analogies and antitheses. Through a strategic selection of poems constituting a 'constellation', a formal pattern of mutually illuminating parts, the analysis aims to show that form and theme are indissoluble: that each movement in the texture of the verse, each pulse, each rise and fall, each intensification or release, not only aids and abets the thrust of the poet's inspiration but is moulding and, in the end, creating the subtleties of sense, which cannot exist but in the weft and web of the breathing, evolving text. It is a study which prioritizes the individual poem, then the poem within an expanding formation of poems, then

Baudelaire within and beyond that formation: an infini dans le fini. It is also an enquiry into what makes poetry, as well as a provocative contribution to the ongoing debate on the nature of criticism. The Works of Thomas Gray, in Prose and Verse: Letters Peter Lang Branch Library News
